But digging and deiving small the battle from afar, would have been vain labor had it not been supplemented by a pseuliar and rare scholarship. The tri-fligural inscriptions were all alike undecipierable save to that rare icliming

bill of health, and foreign nations are advised man to translate painfully he arehate signs and symbols which gave a clue to one of them. Then came the long labor which proved that inscriptions were in three lost languages, and through this fortuous and dark passage philology worked its way until now there are scholars who can read languages which were dead before Rome was founded before the Hacid was written. To what good, say you? Much, in every department of human learning. The rotten hose founded by a rotten ring in the genesis of religion, the origin of law, the foundation of society, the growth of language, usual. It is remarkable that, in consequence of their labors, the new of Babylou flash out truths of which Chrysestom was in doubt. Schliemann would have made the poets of the Periclesin era stare in womder. All the savanta who followed Napotean to Egypt knew less of the early dynastics than a single Egyptologist who is patiently digging away there to-day. For three thousand years or more the world and its learned have slept, infixing fable and tradition, and knowing less of ancient history than is known today. The light of the distorted horizon should be a self-as what the world was, as well as forward. What the world was the made clearer now than eye inform. The be, is made clearer now than eyer before. The ghous and goblins of history receds as the fears and fancies of the present fly. It is something to know that ghosts and fairles are creatures of foney, however painful it may be to admit the fact. It is something to know that our ancestors were not demigods with supernatural powers, but infants of the infant time, and that the world does reare.

CHEAP MONRY INCURABLES

Many newspapers of the cheap money class are attering lamentations over the failure of the Paris conference. "The silver dollar men." says the Nation. "are simply convalescent greenbackers, able to sit out of doors in the sun and do light work, but not yet ht to be dis-charged from the hospital." The figure is not a had one, but in fact the cheap money only stick deeper into the silver miniacs. Many of these have been cured, but the silver hinage stells. The growthacter is consistent. He helderes in government paper money as absolute money, as the basis, the standard of value. He does not the basis, the standard of value. He does not become to measure it by anything else, but by recoverse to measure it by anything else, but by a bad one, but in fact the cheap money folly specie basis and redumption in specie as a relic of barbarism. He also take a question which our greatest financiers cannot masser - namely ;
If the government issues paper money, why not issue all, instead of giving away the greater part of the privilege of sprentation?

But the silver manuscs, having the same childish defusion that dollars of reduced purchasing power are the people's ble-sing, and that government flat can make that a deltay which is not, fancy that they are for sound money, and that their dollar of cheap metal, stamped difteen or twenty cents above its value, is specie, and is therefore the reality; and they propose to make this thing of dalse value a "basis" for curroncy, and a measure of public and private contracts, making that a basis which is itself a fiction, and a measure of obligations which is a false measure. And we have read numberless essays written by those who believe that silver dollars worth eighty to eighty-five cents, and gold dollars worth one hundred cents can circulate together, and yet that the debtor can gain difteen on twenty cents. by the option of paying in dollars of either of the two metals." There is kope for the onre of the greenbackers, who simply believe that paper issued on the credit of the nation and made legal tender will do for all money; but the silver maniaes, believing that government flat can create intrinsic value, and councile dollars of different values circulate to gether at the same value, and verthing the debtor can onjoy the option of cheaper dollars to pay with, are incurable. You may beay these in a mortar, yet will their felly not depart from

INCREASE OF TEARTH.

A statistical writer. Mr. A. T. Coun, in an estimate of the realized wealth of the principal countries of the globe, places the United States third on the list. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland stands first, with a capital valuation of $41,100,000,000. France comes mext with $36,700,000,000. Then the comes next with $36,700,000,000. ## EARLY METHODISM.

FOUNDRY CHURCH, LONDON, THE OLD HOMESTEAD OF THE BENOMI-The Great Feamenteal Centerence in Septem her-Nome Interesting and Timely Facts-Tender Recollections and Associations.

The great gathering to take place in London The open authoring to take place in London new Sectionber. To the called Ecumenical Methodict Conference, will be in the nature of a family reanion. The thoughts of the children will term foully toward the father, and memory will be busy with modifications of the old hours steed. To be sure, Wesley will not be there, and will be the central figure of Ec assembly. The father is dead, but he still Eves in the good deeds be did and in the attentions of the children. The father is dead, but his still leves in the good deeds he did and in the affections of the children. So with the old home-tead. That also is some, and yet it still remains. In the lofty nike it fills in hisray and in the recent regards of the great Methodast family, it folls for my single the property of the fills in hisray and in the recent regards of the great Methodast family, it folls foundly stands to day as said and some a piace as when Wesley which of it after to improvement in 1762. It is now near one in improvement in 1762, at 11 is now near the form the stor of the proceed for divine worder. November 1, 1789. It should about 200 yards from the stor of the proceed for divine worder. November 1, 1789. It should about 200 yards from the stor of the process of founds well-d the Moordichs, which then was very third earlied. The boulding had been used by the government as a place for the casting of cammon. Those wore not times of peace with England, and she did a considerable business in this line. The duke of Marillorough had expired some camnon, and these were to be melted and recast. Dering the process of pour lang out the molton iron an explosion occurred. The roof of the building was shathered and many of the specialors present austained serious injury.

That explosion sounded the death knoll of the foundry as a foundry and was the signal which hardided its melter hand the solvation.

The Foundry was foundry and was the signal which hardided its ness for mobile crins. The building remained in ruins until Wesley was roudy to make it a place whence should go out instruments of spiritual warfare to be applied, not to main slextuaction, but to his salvation.

The Foundry was not the first Methodien is faviation.

The Foundry was not the first Methodien is faviation.

The Foundry was not not dispute with the former the right to the called the doly change and an active with the former was the region of the foundry was opened for wording. In this lower the so-called integral and even on our own; continent.

movement, reached a culmination. It was the year in which Whitefield prevailed upon John Wesiey to preach for the first time in the upon air in London. This jearnon was delivered on Blackheath to an audience of 14,000. Whitefield's note on the consurence, written the day following, ran thus: "I went to bed last night rejoined that another fresh inroad was made into Satan's territories, by Mr. Wesley following no in the field-prending in London as well as in Bristol." It is also worthy of note that Wesley himself assigns the origin of his societies to this year.

The old foundry was doore very churchly in its external appearance, and, to say unthing of elegance, the internal appointments backed even the first essentials of romfort. In both these particulars it was in striking contrast to the stately and attractive churches of the establishment which alboraed the metropolis. And it differed from these in still another regard—in belag at most of its services filled with worshipers, while they gelorally were well-nigh deserted. The Foundry would seat about 1500, and it was nothing officially were well-nigh deserted. The Foundry would seat about 500, and it was nothing of the own about 500, and it was nothing of the manual to the morning. The pulpit of the Foundry was made of pain beards. The seats were rough benches are which, side by side, sat rich and poor. Some of these branches are to be seen to-slay in the backment of City Boad enaps. They are sabitisted as cardiotics. The pulpit is preserved as a relife at Wesl was trach and poor, so the following of the provincial tours, as well as instruction. It is worthy of note, too, refuting, as it does the idea held by some that he was not an inserreting preacher, that Wesley's pulled in limitariations in improved the provincial fours, governed a period of every forty years. Nor old his power that in, about $500, and learnelling reflected to the man's greated as a so in island, and the fact is an utilizing till not the last. He often expressed surprise at this, but how in the history clustering around a family homestead, the careful student of events with never fail to find some facts which will serve him as indices of the genius and subsequent career of the family. So in the Enunder one tinds the genius of Methodion charty marked, ninds the genius of Mcthodion closely marked, and the traits and tendencies which have made her great forestadowed in held carttine. That old meeting horse served other parposes that these commonly answared by a place of worship. Within it walls a free solonol was taughtinto which were gustered the out-sate of the streets and the children; of the laboring poor. Here we find the first influentional bias of Methodish—the carly assection of a genius which has rands not represented the out-of-specific discovering the control of the school and college, and which has led her to do so much to bring learning within the friend of the school and college, in, which has led her to do so much to bring learning within reach of the masses. Another instinction festered at the Foundry was a criding society, by means of which those mouthers who were kells of a were afforded an opportunity to assist by small least of money those struggling to rise in the world. This was a muc field embediment of one of Mr. Wesley's rules, which requires Mathematical in the large manner of the college of the property of the second of the college of the c world. This was a prace featerobediment of one of Mr. Wesday's rules, which rejentees Mothodists, "to help one another in bissiness; and so much the more because the world will love its own and them only." Still abother organization, which had its bada counter in this head center of early Methodism, was a five dispensary, where, without money and without price, the sick poor could obtain inselicine. There was also constantly in operation at the Foundry the original of all the hemopolem societies which Methodism supports. This society, which never warried in well-clong, and in which Mr. Wesley sought to enlist the sympathy and active efforts of all his allebrants, found occasions which meters of all his allebrants, found occasions and providential of the feater to the wants of the Lendon piper on a scale that entitles it to the distinction of one of their city's bestivenesses to 1763, when the Thannes was freezen jover. By the bester-to-do classes fairs and revels were held upon the ice, and those less forminate were left in the general dissipation to family and foreze. These had some friends, however done of them to the founder of Methodism, who distributed "peace portage and harley booth "from the Foundry at his own expense, besides raising $2000 from his congregation for additional charity. Such face as those above that it is not inspitly that the Methodist chirch has been called the friend of the poor."

Another event whire lanks this homestead of Methodism to Old London is the exceptional which visited that city in 1750. There were, indeed, two shocks of earthquakes in that year. The first occurred on the bith of Televirary. It was very sever, The bonness rocked to and from all the fight nead the popular method in the fight nead from the context of the decent of the popular method in the fight nead from the context of the decent of the popular method in the fight nead from the context of the decent of the popular method in the fight nead from the context of the context of the context of the context of the c

The first securited on the 3th of Tebruary. It was very severe, The biness rocked to and fro, and the frightness of people rushed into the streats for safety. The other shock, which eccurred a neath later, wis still more violar. This shock came during the 5 o'clock moreing service at the Foundry. The earth meved westward, eastward, and then westward again. Charles Wesley was the prescher that morning. He had just amounted like that when he produced westward in the foundation should be sufficiently the service at the foundation should be sufficiently the service of mind and with rare hear, resulted the feet the had or not need and gave out as the basis of his sermon the triamphant words of the sermo the relative to the feet, though the earth he removed and the morntains be carried into the midst of tholoan. This text, with the inspiring words of they reacher, quieted the congregation, and the service proceeded regularly to its close.

gregation, and the service proceeded regularly to its close.

Full of interest are such incident, as these, and yet it is for other fagts that the Foundry holds the samed place it does in the hearts of Methodista. Those who attend the appropriating conference in Landon, and all others who take an interest in the owner, will think of that old chapper, every vestige of which has now some, as the place where Join Wesley made his home, as the place where Join Wesley made his home, as the place where his accident preaches existed, as thoseone for forty verso this own and his brother's apostolic haloes, as the place where from city syst and chose we so saved with remediation by foliate powerful arounds, and over any corn method in a comments, and over any course of the forty of the forty of the histories is the force of the strength of the the injuries of Charles W sleep, we seem couldness to be strengthest of the other than the country of the lowest of the lowest of the country of powerpulses.

Another tender thought in connection with the Foundry is that the venerable matter of the Wesleys. Susanital Wesleys spent the last two years of her life there and died in our o two years of her life there and died in one of its rooms. Har death necurred in 17th, three years after the Foundry was idelicated, just ashe woverment in which she tack such a day interest had assumed a parameter for panelly its early successes was giving each necessary as giving each necessary with the relationship of the dayliness. Her last neepest was and two daughters. Her last neepest was "When I am set from sing a long of peaces to God?" a request with which, as host they could thook dutiful and nobbe children compiled.
